About the Kennel Environment

The kennel environment is different from that of a pet hotel, doggy-daycare, or private pet-watching service. While we always strive to provide your pet with the most comfortable experience possible, please make the decision to kennel your pet with the following things in mind:

- Your pet will be in a new environment away from their home and their owners.
- Your pet will be exposed to periods of loud noises such as barking or meowing.
- Your pet will not have direct contact with animals from different households, however, they may see other animals in neighboring kennels/condos or during yard-time.

Due to the stimulants that exist in the kennel environment, your pet may experience stress-related symptoms such as diarrhea, lack of appetite, and changes in behavior. Our team of caretakers will be monitoring your pets throughout their stay. If symptoms are observed our staff will reach out to inform you and try to provide services that may help make them more comfortable!
